

About new mobile battery sharing service

Central Japan International Airport will set up a new mobile battery sharing service called "CHARGE SPOT" in the airport for the convenience of passengers.

"CHARGE SPOT" is a mobile battery sharing service provided by INFORIC INC, which allows users to easily rent batteries by locating the nearest battery stand through a dedicated application and return them after use at any of the approximately 26,000 battery stands nationwide.

This is a convenient and reliable service for those who are worried about running out of charge while using their phone or traveling.
